John 17:20

Dear Church,

I want to express my appreciation for the wonderful turnout we had this past Sunday for our garden dedication event. I am deeply encouraged by the enthusiasm our church has for this new ministry. There is a picture Alex snapped and uploaded to our church Facebook page that, I think, serves as a fitting illustration of our shared commitment to this new project. In the picture, over 80 of us are circled together in the garden, hands held. To me, this picture speaks of how we plan to work together to make this small ministry grow. It speaks of how, together, we will faithfully water it. And it speaks of how, together, we will watch God take something so small—something no bigger than a mustard seed—and turn it into something truly significant.

Here’s to continued growth together!

All my love,
Austin
